Walk the Walk was prepared for the American Bar Association. It is a 30-minute video in which actors portray a diverse group of lawyers working at the same law firm.

Many of the lawyers appear to be well-intended, but consciously or unconsciously they say and do a lot of things that show a lack of sensitivity to their colleagues or reduce people to a stereotype.

It is an engaging video that you will be eager to discuss immediately after watching it. That's the "Talk the Talk" part of the program.

Students will watch the video in small groups of about 10 to 15 people and then discuss it for 30 to 40 minutes. Keeping us in small groups will allow everyone to participate.

Students who sign up will be randomly assigned to a room in the Law Building.
